We've had many animal encounters around the world on all seven continents. We're rounding up the best wildlife experiences you cannot miss. Wildlife in the Antarctic don't see a lot of humans so when you land on the island or paddle around the peninsula, animals come out to take a look and see what's up. Penguins are the most curious creatures and if you are very still, they will waddle right up to you and peck at your clothes. We were on a base camp adventure with Canada Parks and all week we had seen grizzlies in the distance. Just as we were about to catch our bush plane out, a grizzly mama with two cubs walked right by our camp and spent a good 15 minutes swimming in the water, burrowing in the ground and frolicking with her cubs. Then hang on for these amazing animal adventures. Ditch the petting zoo for a chance to walk with polar bears or bond with gorillas. Trade that pony ride for some horse surfing or ostrich riding. This list offers an awe-inspiring animal encounter for every budget: From free to pricey, they're all utterly unforgettable. If that sounds like leisure time to you, consider a multiday cruise with Great White Adventures to Guadalupe Island in Mexico. From August through December, you'll have the chance to dive in waters containing one of the most prolific great white shark populations in the world. Excellent underwater visibility and warm water offer ideal conditions for cage dives with sharks up to 21 feet long.
