Parental Advisory: Music Censorship in America

By Eric D Nuzum

HarperCollins Publishers Inc, United States, 2001. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 201 x 135 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Everything You Ever Wanted To Know About The Music Your Parents Never Wanted You To Hear Believe it or not, music censorship in America did not begin with Tipper Gore's horrified reaction to her daughter's Prince album. The vilification of popular music by government and individuals has been going on for decades. Now, for the first time, Parental Advisory offers a thorough and complete chronicle of the music that has been challenged or suppressed -- by the people or the government -- in the United States. From Dean Martin's Wham, Bam, Thank you Ma'am to Marilyn Manson's Antichrist Superstar; from freedom fighters such as Frank Zappa and in-your-face rappers such as N.W.A. to crusaders such as Tipper Gore, this intelligent and entertaining book shows how censorship has crossed sexual, class, and ethnic lines, and how many see it as a de facto form of racism. With nearly one hundred fascinating photographs of musicians, record burning, and controversial cover art; illuminating sidebars; and a decade-by-decade timeline of important moments in censorship history, Parental Advisory...

Both formats make Parental Advisory ideal for reference and research. Nuzum's witty, well-thought-out prose and numerous anecdotes insure that it will also be read for pleasure. The author is clearly against censorship, but he doesn't rave against it. The book is a good demonstration of how to feel passionately about a point but remain cool when one argues it, backing it up with facts instead of froth. This is a good reference book for the history of music (and video) censorship or attempted censorship. It shows the ridiculous as well as the warranted (in who's opinion?). While I'm sure that no one wants their child to listen to songs of suicide, sex and drugs when they are ten years old, this book, to me, enforces the fact that it is more a parental responsibility than anything else. We've all seen the Parental Advisory stickers, it's a whole other story that you can check out here , so we won't focus on it too much. 1989 - FBI condemns N.W.A.'s "Fuck tha Police." 1990 - a bill is passed by Missouri legislators, banning the sales of records with violent and sexually explicit lyrics. Overall, it's safe to say that over the years the music censorship in the States has become much less noticeable, especially since there's such a wide variety of sources to listen to music. Who actually cares about the Federal Government's opinion, or what's in radio rotation when you can listen to any track on a streaming service?
