This exciting new 3rd edition of the bestselling title, Black & Decker Complete Guide to Sheds How to Write an Introduction for a Research Paper. Start writing an intro. The introductory paragraph should begin with an attention grabber that may be: ~... a provocative question; ~... statistics; ~... an anecdote; ~... unusual facts, etc. You are writing an academic paper but that doesn't mean you have to be boring. Your outline will help you to complete this part of your paper. But you shouldn't think that you must strictly follow it. It may evolve and you are free to revise it and make changes. The key thing is to stay on your track and focus on your thesis. You should provide your points and support your main idea. Start each body paragraph with a topic sentence and provide arguments and relevant evidence to support it. You should write as many body paragraphs as you have the key points.
