Which sentence best describes characteristics of Renaissance art? Renaissance art had both religious and secular themes. Compared with Medieval art, Renaissance art often appeared to be lifelike. Compared with Medieval art, the purpose of Renaissance art was to show the wealth of patrons. Supporters of art during the Renaissance were called patrons. During the Renaissance, an artist who was considered a "Renaissance man" because of his expertise in several areas was da Vinci. Study The Creation of Adam by Michelangelo. One of the elements that makes the painting a major Renaissance work of art is its use of realism. A common theme found in both Medieval art and Renaissance art is religion. One artist, for example, had filmed videos of animals through coloured glass and another had added music – they worked really well. There were also action photos. One was of a bear that had climbed up a tree in a garden in Canada and refused to come down. Wildlife experts sent the bear to sleep with a special vet’s gun and a brilliant young photographer saw a great opportunity. He took a photo showing the bear falling out of the tree, fast asleep, onto a rubber mat on the ground, as if it was jumping like a gymnast! It’s important to have a good view of the bedroom door from the bed. A single strong light in the bedroom is better than several soft ones. Use of English. Time: 25 minutes. Task 4. The ideas and images of the Renaissance largely determined... If they only knew that today the search query "the art of the Middle Ages" in search engines returns Renaissance paintings in about 70% of links, then they would certainly get outraged. The Renaissance era is historically most often attributed to the late Middle Ages, considering this period a "bridge" to the New Age. Nevertheless, the Renaissance worldview is much closer to the New Age and it is the quattrocento that forms the aesthetic canons of modern man, which are firmly entrenched in our minds. Renaissance art, painting, sculpture, architecture, music, and literature produced during the 14th, 15th, and 16th centuries in Europe under the combined influences of an increased awareness of nature, a revival of classical learning, and a more individualistic view of man. Scholars no longer believe that the Renaissance marked an abrupt break with medieval values, as is suggested by the French word renaissance, literally “rebirth.”
